09-07-2008

The current holy jihad of Afghan nation has not only surprised the crusaders occupation forces but the entire world, most politicians and military experts consider the occupation plan of Afghanistan as a brainless decision by the Bush administration and now no matter what tactics the invaders apply they can not escape from this historical defeat.

Mujahideen of Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan, in a recent operation which they executed to perfection breaking into Kandahar prison and were able to free hundreds of their Mujahideen brothers, this operation shock the invader forces and created a discord between the allies of terror the American, NATO and their hand pick Afghan puppets administration, they all accepted this attack as one of the biggest defeats for them since the occupation began and a great victory for the Taliban. Also, some authentic sources have informed the Mujahideen about a recent meeting, in which American, NATO and their puppets administration of Kabul acknowledge that their security and military strategy were completely unproductive, these secret meeting have not been discussed in media till now.

According to an interview with BBC, Lord Ashdown, the former party-leader of Labour party, revealed that Tony Blair had no intention of keeping the British army in Afghanistan for a longer period of time; instead he told us that the army will only stay long enough in Afghanistan till Kabul is occupied. Ashdown also said that I told Blair even at that time, that Afghanistan is not a kind of country where foreign forces will be acceptable by bribery, military cruelty and pressures. Ashdown also added, that Blair came under the threats of Bush and gave afflictions to Afghans as well as to British troops and their families, who don't think that Britain will come out of Afghanistan issue quick and unharmed.

Similarly, a US senator who wrote a new book on Afghanistan and Iraq occupation, said that Bush has been lying to American people since last seven years and is still lying. He used to say that Al-Qaida and Taliban can't kill our troops and before they attack us, we will attack them and will destroy them. According to this senator, we see that Taliban and Al-Qaida are openly attacking and killing American troops without any difficulties, they are destroying tanks, helicopters and other war equipments. The senator further said, that Bush has misinformed American public about the true dangers of Iraq and Afghanistan and now we totally believe that Bush has also given wrong information about the death toll in Iraq and Afghanistan.

The situation is far worst in Afghanistan as compared to the way politicians and analysts are projecting to the public. The reality is that the situation is full of embarrassment and gloom for the foreign militaries and their puppet organizations of Kabul. When one analyzes the last seven years during which America and NATO forces have utilizing their militaries technology, politics, money, media and other evil resources, which all have resulted in negative and leading to an embarrassing defeat, one can also see that while spending billions of dollars and trying to inject fear of their eighty thousand invader troops with their merciless acts, America and its allies have failed to make Afghan citizens their allies by force or willingly. In spite of all their cruelties and deceiving acts, every part of Afghanistan's land is still destructive and full of danger for foreign militaries.

The whole world recently witnessed how the Taliban in one day burned fifty trucks of supplies and several army jeeps. According to mainstream media news agencies, thirty invader soldiers were killed in Afghanistan in the month of June, however the number of invader soldiers killed is much greater than what the mainstream media reports.

The people of the West must ponder, whether the Taliban could carry out such large scale attacks without the co-operation of general public. The International concern bodies should now be able to decide on who's side are Afghan public on. International military experts should be able to explain to the world that during the last seven years American and NATO forces have been gaining or loosing or are they on the road of defeat or success?.
